The PubMed link on the HSL website is configured to show you UW icons leading to full-text articles.

YOU HAVE A LIBRARIAN. SHE COULD HELP YOU WITH...

Conducting literature reviews and developing research strategies.

Tracking down difficult-to-find information and publications.

Using citation managers like EndNote and Zotero to keep track of articles and format citations in papers. <http://guides.lib.uw.edu/hsl/information-management-tools>

Setting up a system for monitoring the literature. <https://guides.lib.uw.edu/hsl/biomed/alerts>

Researching where to publish an article. <https://guides.lib.uw.edu/hsl/writer/publishing>

TAKE 5 MINUTES TO HELP YOUR FUTURE SELF

Bookmark the Biomedical Sciences Toolkit: <https://guides.lib.uw.edu/hsl/biomed>

Set up a PubMed MyNCBI account (for saving references and setting up alerts):
<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/sites/myncbi/>

Register for an ORCID iD; use it when you publish: <https://guides.lib.uw.edu/hsl/orcid>

Follow the Research Commons: <https://www.lib.washington.edu/commons>

Plan to contact Diana Loudon when you want assistance.
